

2.6.2 - Attainment of Programme outcomes and course outcomes are evaluated by the institution.

The programme outcomes and course outcomes are evaluated both formally and informally. Formally, the evaluation of POs and COs is done through assignments at UG level, term-papers at PG level, internal tests, and university examinations.

Another formal way is the students' progression to higher studies or their placements. Meetings of Alumni Association also help in evaluating POs and Cos. During these meetings, the Institution learns the activities and professions the alumni are engaged in.

Informally, the evaluation of POs and COs can be done through the students' participation in co-curricular, extra-curricular, sports, and extension activities. Farming is the major occupation of the people of this area. More than 50% of the girl students do not go for any employment after their study is over. They prefer or are forced to lead the life of a housewife. So, most of the girl students and many boys too prefer farming as their occupation.

Many students follow their ancestral trades. There are two big GIDCs (Gujarat Industrial Development Corporation) namely Pardi GIDC and Vapi GIDC that can offer employment to the students. The programs and courses offered by the Institution are open-ended and most of the students go for further studies after graduation. Many involve in farming activities or their ancestral trades. In such cases, it becomes difficult to measure the program or the course outcomes for the Institution.
